PRESIDENT'S REPORT

The Fairmont Austin opened its doors to this year's TEC/TREWA Annual Meeting. History has shown the Fairmont to be the iconic "Place of Occasion" and so was the annual meeting. Directors, CEO/General Manager's and staff gathered together to take part in learning about topics that affect the cooperatives, rekindle friendships and support TREWA's fundraising efforts. A stroll outside the grand meeting room gave attendees the opportunity to visit the many TREWA booths. Arts and Crafts wares were in abundance and covered a multitude of choices. Bidding wars took place over the many Silent Auction items donated by vendors and members from across the state as were all the items. Many others took their chances on the Group Raffle Ticket Sales and the 6-Visa Card Raffle Ticket Sales. This year's fundraising event was outstanding and raised $52,293.

The generosity of those that donated and those that purchased items is phenomenal. These funds will aid in providing support to our RuralFriends/ACRE causes, TREWA Scholarships and Youth Tour Program. We simply can't express how very grateful we are to have such tremendous support from all over the state. As we continue to live and work in a world so dependent upon electricity, let's not forget to continue to tell our story of the pioneers of rural electrification. The Lamplighter will continue to shine a little light to keep the story going.

Safety & Efficiency

Tips For Energy Efficiency

Fall is here, and that means colder months will be here before we know it. Is your home prepared for the drafts that may enter? Tight-fitting insulating drapes or shades are a perfect way to keep the heat in and the cold out.

PLEASE MOVE OVER FOR EMERGENCY AND UTILITY CREWS

If you see police, firefighters, utility crews or other emergency personnel on the side of the road, please slow down and move over when possible.

Together, we can keep our crews safe.

AMERICA'S ELECTRIC
COOPERATIVES

Cooperative History Series

It came after the electric light and before radio, television, microwave ovens, blenders, juicers, computers - indeed, it was the first electrical appliance to populate the home and one of only a handful of devices in history to achieve ubiquity in advanced nations. Interestingly, although it turned 100 years old in 2005, it can still be found in more than 90% of American homes. As the first electrical appliance, this also means we are now celebrating over 100 years of electrical appliances. Oh, and by the way, can you guess what it is?

Now toast is not new, first having become common about 5,000 years ago in Egypt. Once more the Romans were responsible for the spread of the idea of toast across Europe and the word "toast" comes from the Latin "tostum" which means scorch or burn.

The application of electrical energy to standardize the difficult process of scorching bread seemed a natural. Appliances fashioned from wire and designed for holding bread (over a fire) were among the more commonplace kitchen items of the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries and anyone who has ever toasted bread on an open fire will vouch for the many difficulties.

According to the Cyber Toaster Museum, a young engineer named Albert Marsh applied for a patent for an alloy of nickel and chromium in March, 1905, which Marsh described in his patent application as having: "...the properties of being very low in electrical conductivity, very infusible, non-oxidizable to a very high degree, tough and sufficiently ductile to permit drawing or shaping it into wire or strip to render it convenient for use as an electrical resistance element."

Two months later, George Schneider submitted a patent application for an enclosed toaster using a resistance wire and the very first rudimentary electrical appliance, the toaster, was born.

- The first toaster had a colorful name, "El Tosto," and was manufactured under the Pacific Electric Heating name, which later became Hotpoint Electric.
- The first U.S. Patent for an electric toaster was made in 1909 by General Electric.
- The first automatic pop-up toaster was the Toastmaster 1A1, invented in 1926. The was the most desired wedding gift of that time. In today's dollars it would have gone for $150 making it a prized wedding gift.
- Toasters really gained popularity in 1933 upon the invention of sliced bread. It is historically speaking, the toaster is the next best thing since sliced bread.
- Today over 75 million Americans enjoy a piece of golden brown toast ever day.

November is National Bread Month in the United States so celebrate and give a "toast" to National Bread Month.

Rural Friends
ACRE

Rural friends/ACRE supports legislators who have not only demonstrated an understanding of the unique role electric cooperatives have played in the development of rural communities, but who have also been recognized for their communities to represent the rural interests of electric cooperatives and their members.

Rural Friends/ACRE was formed with the mission of making the voice of electric co-op consumers heard in the Texas Legislature and U.S. Congress. Rural Friends of Electric Cooperatives is the nonpartisan political action committee that supports candidates seeking election to the Texas Legislature. It operates under a set of bylaws and the policies of a board of directors composed of electric co-op leaders elected from around the state. ACRE - the Action Committee for Rural Electrification - supports candidates for the U.S. Congress. Rural Friends and ACRE are subject to all state and federal campaign finance laws and reporting requirements.

Membership is strictly voluntary and consists of persons who have an interest in preserving and defending our local electric co-ops. Rural Friends/ACRE raises personal, voluntary contributions from supporters who care about our co-ops and the communities we serve.

Contributions go to candidates for state and federal office who have demonstrated support for electric co-op goals, who share co-op values and who want electric co-ops to be successful. Support is based on voting records on legislation affecting electric co-ops, statements on co-op issues, and historical stances on those issues.

Joining is Easy. Simply fill out and mail the form below along with your check to add your voice to those electric co-op leaders who are "making a difference" for electric co-ops in Austin and Washington, D. C.

The TREWA Board of Directors thanks you for your continued support of this organization.

TREWA membership is open to men and women of rural electric cooperatives. We encourage you to become a part of our growing organization as we continue to light the lamp of knowledge for the future.

Membership has its privileges. The children of TREWA members are eligible to apply for scholarships sponsored by TREWA. Members also receive an edition of The Lamplighter, which is sent twice a year via email.

Regular membership price is $10 per year and, to date, we have almost 1,000 members. Once again, TREWA is offering membership at $5 per person to cooperatives that enroll 100 percent of their directors, directors' spouses and employees (or spouse of an employee). We would like to acknowledge and thank the cooperatives that currently have 100 percent membership:

- CoServ Electric, Group 3
- Heart of Texas EC, Group 2
- North Plains EC, Group 5
- Tri-County EC, Group 3
